

Free Online Course

10 Professional Development Hours
1 Rutgers University CEU

The Brain Injury Alliance of New Jersey and Rutgers Continuing Education have partnered to develop a FREE online course which provides information about working with students with brain injury.

What does this course offer?

Brain Injury in Students

Participants will learn a formal foundation for better understanding how brain injury affects students, and how school professionals can help students with brain injury.

Concussion in the Classroom

Participants will have a better understanding of how concussion affects students, and how school professionals can help students with concussion as they transition back to the classroom.

Concussion in Youth Sports

Participants will learn an overview of concussion, including the NJ Department of Education's model policy, signs and symptoms of concussion, and the risk of secondary injury.

Is this for you?

This course is intended for general and special education teachers, school psychologists, educational consultants, social workers, guidance counselors, principals, speech and language pathologists, and other professionals who work with students with brain injuries.

Registration & Contact

Register online at <https://ce-catalog.rutgers.edu> and type in the keywords brain injury primer.

For more information about this course go to <http://bianj.org/online-course-for-school-professionals>

For more information or to request a workshop at your facility, contact us at:

732.745.0200

Trainings@bianj.org

www.bianj.org